The Holmes Brothers have been feeding the souls of music lovers for more than 30 years with a joyous and moving blend of blues, gospel, soul, R&B, rock-n-roll and country. The trio has shared the stage with a long roster of musicians, including Bob Dylan, Van Morrison, Bruce Springsteen, Willie Nelson, Peter Gabriel and Merle Haggard. Wendell Holmes was diagnosed with bladder cancer in 2008 and has been cancer-free for over a year. Feed My Soul, the group's most recent album, was born from this experience.

BCAN, the Bladder Cancer Advocacy Network, was founded in 2005 by Diane and John Quale. BCAN is the first national advocacy organization dedicated to increasing public awareness of bladder cancer, advancing bladder cancer research, and providing educational and support services for the bladder cancer community.

BCAN is organizing events in over a dozen cities across the country for the first annual National Bladder Cancer Awareness Day on July 17, 2010. For more information about Bladder Cancer Awareness Day events, visit www.bcan.org.
